1. Almost every day, 5,000 liters of Diesel fuel are transported from the railway station at Templin to the new air base between Gross Doelln and Vietmannsdorf. The transportation is handled by a private trucking concern in its own tank-trucks. Drivers and helpers have special passes for entering the restricted zone of the area in which the new buildings are located. The Diesel fuel is discharged into subterranean tanks.
2. Foundation and length of the starting and landing strips are said to be planned for the heaviest jet planes, and will take jet bombers of every size and description.
3. As yet, there are no indications that planes are using the subterranean hangars.
